

Sitting in the Mindanao sea, the pint-sized island of Camiguin is one of the country's most appealing tourist spots, offering ivory beaches, iridescent lagoons and undulating scenery. There's no shortage of adventure here either, with reasonable scuba diving and some tremendous trekking and climbing in the rugged interior, especially on Mount Hibok-Hibok. Camiguin also features six other volcanoes, a multitude of hot springs, a submerged cemetery for divers to explore near the coastal town of Bonbon, and a spring that gushes natural soda water. Another major tourist draw is the annual Lanzones Festival, held in the fourth week of October. Revellers dressed only in lanzones leaves stomp and dance in the streets as a tribute to the humble fruit, one of the island's major sources of income.

The beauty of Camiguin is that it doesn't really matter where you stay because you can visit all the sites easily from anywhere. The coastal road is almost 70 kms long, making it feasible to circle the island in a day. If you don't want to depend on public transport, consider hiring your private jeepney or tricycle for the trip. Many resorts also offer motorcycle rental.
