

Palawan Island lies on the southwest of the Philippine archipelago and is just north of Malaysia's Sabah Island. It consists of 1,769 islands and islets divided into three major groups: the Calamian Island group to the north; the Cuyo Island group in the northwest; and the Balabac-Bugsuk group in the southwest. Palawan's capital is Puerto Princesa.

Palawan is known for its white sand beaches, magnificent landscape, rainforests and fishing villages. The province has several sites which attracts divers from various parts of the world. More importantly, Palawan's attraction lies in the presence of marine and wildlife in the island.

The Puerto Princesa Subterranean River National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, has recently been declared as one of the New 7 Wonders of Nature. It features a spectacular limestone landscape with one of the most impressive cave systems in the world and contains an 8.2 km long underground river that flows directly to the sea.

Other points of interest include: Tabon Caves, where fossils and crude tools of ancient man dating some 50,000 years ago was unearthed; Ursula Island, a bird's paradise and sanctuary; Iwahig Prison and Penal Farm, a rehabilitation farm established for prisoners; El Nido Village, which has beautiful beaches and diving sites and is noted for edible bird's nest, the prime ingredient of Nido soup.
